The meanness and eagerness with which is Copperheads steek Gov. Yates with six usual weapons, vituperation and falsecod, will not alarm its friends. They sow that his fervent and steady loyalty, a desire to put down the enemy, his xiety to minister to the comfort of our ildiers, and his deadly hatred of the tream to which his orponents are committed. to which his opponents are committed, the real reasons of attack. He has veto power, he became something e than the figure-head of State, and at IEUT. COL. HASBBOUCK DAVIS. me he will receive from his the welcome he will receive from his riends here is enhanced by the repu-ation that has preceded him, won in his faithful service in he field in Virginia. He has made his a nect honorable and gratifying record. For everal months past, in the absence of Col. Von Leave Col. Davie has been in com-Yoss, Lieut. Col. Davis has been in com-nand of the 12th Illinois Cavalry, always in the foremost position of trial and danhe possession of high soldierly qualities, and has made his command the theme of praise of superiors, the emulation of quals. The brilliant feat at Harper's Fery which enatched from the very teeth of ewall Jackson the most coveted part of his prise, the cavalry arm, was wholly due in design and execution to the cool-ness and energy of Lieut Col. D. He beeves in the war, and in the crushing of setting it down in print.

nowledging the independence of the Southern infederacy.

The Rood need not have taken that wast second hand. It could have found he original in the disunion peace resolu-ions introduced into the Illinois, indiana, New Jersey and Kentucky' Legislatures; in the speeches of the Copperhead leaders beginning with Vallandicham in Congress, down to "My illandigham in Congress, down to "My aryland" Merrick. It would have found York World and Express. Mahony ires in a card that appears in the Cophead papers of New York city, that olutely in favor of a rigorous esecution of peace, and as resolutely pposed to a vigorous prosecution of the ment, for the pay of clerks in the Governor of office, of messengers on public service by order of the Governor, of assistants in the Adjatant General's office, and Commissary General's office, and Commissary General office, lithographing, postage, and other insidental expenses. The same to be expended in an act entitled "An set to provide for extraordinary expenditures in the Experite Department".

We tell these protestant Copperheads— little Mr. Fuller included, that there is a deep damnation swalling them. The member that votes against a small pittance member that votes against a small pittance to be expended for the aid of the sick and wounded soldiers of Illinois, is no better than a brute and a rebel. He is utterly destitute of humanity and patriotism, and there will be heaped up wrath against the day of wrath for such heartless villains.

The correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer, writing from Yalmouth on Yriday last, reports that on that day "the sale of the New York World was stopped at Falmouth Station, and throughout the camps, by orders from the Provost-Marshal-General. The agents, with their bundles, were ordered back to Aqua Creek, and were not allowed to sell one of these papers along the read. The came of this proceeding was said to be that these papers disseminate disloyal sentiments, prijudicial to the discipline of the army." The correspondent adds that Gen. Hooker has expressed a determination to stop the circulation in camp of all publications of a distoyal character.

A curious admission was made to our informant by this young officer of the Alabama, to the following effect: That it was necessary to recover the men in the secret and somewhat dishonorable way which was suggested to the boatman, because the Confederates were not a recognised power, and could not legally require the assistance of the authorities of the port.

Our informant was frequently on Laard the Alabama during her stay at Port Royal (a place about ten miles from Jamaioa.) He describes the vessels as less formidable than he had supposed. New York, Feb. 19.—We have the following extracts from robel papers:

In the Confederate Congress, Foots, of Tenn., offered a resolution to the effect that President Davis shall, on or before May first next, withdraw the present diplomatic agents from every foreign country the govent of which shall not at that time have to recognize the independence of the stederacy, and after that date no fore consults shall be longer allowed to exercise consular power, except upon an exequaturasked for at the hands of the Confederate States and granted by the same. The resolutions further declare that the conduct of the European powers to unite with him in mediation has been highly gratifying both to the Government and people of the Confederate States.

The tone of the journals generally indicate a want of hope and spirit. All prespects of foreign mediation seem to be given up, and the present is considered the most criticals period of the whole war.

WHAT THE ROSTON COUTRER SAYS.

Gen. McChellan on his reappointment can begin a great work of reformation in the army. From that of the Potomache can choose an efficient force which will serve and child with the says of the country. He can have what no other man was that has, a feesh body of troops for a lawful and practicable purpose, namely, to maintain the forms of government until the opportunity occurs to elect another Administration. This is all, in our judgment, which can now be accomplished, or which the main body of the people desire to see accomplished.

The immediate cause of the rebellion was the late attempt to enforce the Russian conscript faw, and compel the Poles to fight the battles of their conqueror. We can readily understand how attestly revolting a law like this would be to a proud and heroic people, who, although their liberties had been trampled under the hoofs of the hated Cosancks, were still lovers of liberty, and sworn, by all the traditions and history of the past, to hate the Moscovite as their desclibest enemy, and the murderer of their nationality.

But there seems to have been no adepaste preparation for for a struggle with he gigantic forces of their oppressor. It is said that two or three regiments of remains described the Russian camps and rent over to the insurgents, but we do not earn that a determined stand was made anywhere, or that anything but akirmishing took place; although we are told that one time. Heaven forgive us: do return and enlighten us. And from Richmond comes back by return of mail such replies as this in the Dispotes:

"If the North will allow us to write the Constitution of receives and give us every guaranty we would ask, we would sooner be under the government of France or England."
"We demand an armistice," cry the peace men in Illinois, New Jersey and classwhere—and straightway Mr. Foote replies, in the rebel Congress; of which we speak, not more keenly than Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan, has indicated her policy, by sending to the Colonial Government, five Commissioners to represent our wants, and to ask the relief, by the enlargement of the Canadian canals, that New York stubbornly refuses to afford by the reduction of her tolls. The surrounding States have an interest equal to our own; and their legislators and public men will pardon us if we suggest to them the necessity of warmly seconding the resolution that Illinois has taken. Unless the Northwest chooses to accept commercial vassings as her lot, and be content to work for New York City and the Government of New York State, and get and straightway Mr. Foote replies, in the rebell Congress:

"Nor could the government of said Confederate Biates agree to negotiate at all in regard to a suspension of hostilities, except upon the basis of a formal and unconditional recognition of their independence."

"Let us hold a convention of all the Biates at Louisville," demand western peace men; but the Richmond Enguirer answers, even before the proposition is formally put on paper:

posts in which they had been placed. General Butler was one of this class; he did not tender his resignation, but was only "relieved," as the saying is, without cereinony. But when a Military Governor, who pursues the opposite course, and sets himself in opposition to the policy of the Administration, asks to be relieved, compliance with his request is postponed from week to week, as if the executive was unwilling to lose the co-operation of so was unwilling to lose the co-operation of so

Marquis of Lansdewme.

The last steamer from Europe brings intelligence of the death of the Marquis of Lansdewn of the most distinguished statesmen of Europe. He graduated at Trinity College, and entered Parliament in 1902, at twenty-two years of age, as a member from the borough of Coine. In 1806, he was returned for the Cambridge University. In the former year he entered the Ministry as Chancellor of the Exchequer, and filled the position for one year. He continued to sit in Parliament, was appointed Home Secretary in 1807; served as Lord President of the Council in the Whig Ministry from 1830 to 1840. He was for many years the acknowledged leader of the Whig party, with whose history he was intimately identified for nearly half a sentury. He was a man of strong intellect and large culture. Few statesmen were better versed in political history, and few statesmen had more of the tact that enables the possessor to so are and retain power. Although thoroughly in sympathy with his class socially, he was not illiberal in his political principles.

The West and the War.

(From the St. Louis Republican, (Dem.) 17th.]

A politician manued D. A. Mahoney—who was some weeks since released from the Old Capitol Prison in Washington—has written a letter, published in the New York World, in which he assumes to speak the sentiments of the Northwest in relation to the further prosecution of the war. His text is the recent speech of Mr. John Yan Buren, in New York, and as the presumption that Mr. Van Buren, reflected the sentiments of the Democracy of New York has not been contradicted Mr. Mahoney contends that there is a vast chasm between the Democracy of that State and the West. New York is for a vigorous prosecution of the war, while, according to this writer, the people—especially of Illinois, Indiana and Iowa—are opposed to its further prosecution. And the practical design of this communication, as he says, is to produce a concert of action "between the conservative elements of New York and of the Northwest." In other words, Mr. Mahoney is in New York engaged in the business of creating a public sentiment favorable to the demands of the rebels for the division of the Union. He has probably not had enough of martydoon, and a laboring to get himself again arrested as a State prisoner, giving moral and and comfort to the enemy.

This Mr. Minoney is the editor of a paper per giving moral and and comfort to the enemy.

of trops dusate with vectory, as once input front, finank and rear, proved themselves equal to the inpuling emergency. In the modest language of General Palmer, "the gallant men who had so bravely struggied to hold the position, occupied if during the night."

The hattle of Inkerman, the assault on the Redan, or the storming of the Maisland, afford no instances of courage and determination more brilliant and unflinching than is here exhibited. Probably many other! Generals who participated in the bloody battle of Stone River, displayed qualities equal to those manifested by Gen. Palmer, but I doubt whether it was the luck of any officers, below the rank of Commander-in-Chief, to unite equal skill with equal good fortune, and to exercise on the final result an influence so commanding union more difficult; but with those with whom our armises have to deal chiefly the original seccesionists, there is no proof that the case would have been very fer sidingent had the war continued under the conservative national policy adopted at the beginning. It is no argument against the war that some persons support it because they believe it will result in the abolition of alavery. Whatever side issues there may be in the minds of different persons, the contest is still one for Union, and pre-eminently so. We can only have Union now by vigorously prosecuting the war for to cease hoesilities, in the face of the uncompromising demands of the rebels, is simply to consent to the disintegration of the country.

Another Voice from a Copper-head.

Everybody knows what the New York Erpress is -cdited by James and Erastus Brooks-its Copperhead sympathics are not excelled outside of the dying Confederacy. James Brooks may be said to be the special champion of Peace-at-any-price propositions. But the vehement scorn with which the Bichmond rebels treated the peace programme of our Copperheads, seems to have cooled the arder of the "friends of peace" in the East, who have as little notion of letting the South At-lantic States go, as we have of permitting the Lower Mississippi States to drop out. counts report that the rebels have been crushed, but Russian official bulleties are not the most reliable in the world. The Warsaw correspondent of the Berlin National Zeitung, writing on the 25th ult., says;

I can only confirm my account of yesterday, that the country is in complete revolt. According to the arrangements of the revolutionary party, the outbreak was not to take place until the list of May, but the Government themselves have hastened the catastrophe by the unhappy recruiting movement. From all parts of the country come bad reports, one following the other. In Kiele and in Siedlie Provistonary Governments are established. Fighting has taken place at many points with varied results. All the telegraphic lines are broken, and on the Warsaw and St. Petersburg and the Vienna Railways, the rails are torn up and carried off. On the Warsaw and St. Petersburg in the insergents have have burnt the bridge. All the lines have become insentes, and it will cost the Government much trouble to become masters of the movement. The insurgents seem to be about to carry on a guerilla wasfere. So far the rebels, but more important is, if for the extension of the revolt that all the industries. The country people now begin to waver, and at many places they stready make common cause with the rebels are in the connett.

Gov. Curtin and a New Polical Party. [Correspondence of the Philadelphia Press.] HARRISSUSO, Peb. 16, 1862.

(Correspondence of the Frillampians rees.)

Hammasuras, Peb. 16, 1862.

The statement that Gov. Curtin, at a recent dinner in Washington, held a conversation with Secretary Seward in relation to the formation of a new political party, is without foundation. Nothing took place at that dinner, except the exchange of ordinary civilities, and no reference was made to the renomination of Gov. Curtin by any such new party. Neither is Gov. Curtin acquainted with Thurshow Weed, who is alleged to be the head of the new party. This disavowal is made by authority of Gov. Curtin, who does not wish to bave his name associated at this momentus crists, with any movement calculated to distract the country. He is entirely ignorant of the organization or principles of any new party.

The Newspaper and Book Publishers.

Bosroz, Monday, Pob. 16, 1863.

There was a large attendance of newspaper proprietors and book publishers before the Legislative Committee on Federal Relations to-day, to urge the importance of memorializing Congress for relief against the paper makers monopoly. It was shown that the cost of school books alone was five millions of dollars annually, and that this combination of paper minufacturers added thereto twenty per cent., which was serious tax on the majerity of parents; also, that nearly all the religious publications, weekly newspapers, and books heretofore jublished for the people, would be compelled to suspend entirely or be greatly restricted in their usefulness. The publishers for the proposition of the compelled to suspend on the following resolutions:

CAPTURE OF CAPT. VON MINDES.

It appears, from a letter just received by Mr. George Bentz of St. Paul, that Captain Von Minden of the last Minnesota cavairy, and twenty-seven of his company, while on a socuting expedition from Fort Henry towards Fort Donelson, were amprised and captured, by a rebel force the day previous to the attack on Fort Donelson. The privates were paroied, but Captain Von Minden was retained a prisoner. This is the second time during the warthal he has been captared.

THE Indian Council at the American House has grown to be quite a formidable affair. Eighteen chiefs have been here for some days, representing the Leech Lake, Gull Lake, Mill Lake, Rabbit Lake, and Pokegema Lake bands. The young men accompanying the chiefs have been sent home. In addition to these, Mr. Whitchead a trader at Leech Lake, arrived on the control of the control of source to their mouth to the continuation of the series o

"It would be necessary to establish custom houses over 500 leagues, to construct and arm forts along this immense frontier, support a large standing army and navy. In other words—they must renounce the old Constitution—weaken numnicipal independence and concentrate power. Added then to the old and glorious liberty! Added to those institutions which made America the common country of all those who lacked a breathing place in Europe. The work of Washington would be utterly destroyed, and the new condition of things woull be full of difficulty and peril. I

The war is a terrible evil; but from the war a durable peace may spring.

So far I have argued on the hypothesis that the South would remain an independent power.

It might last a few years, but in ten or twiny years, when the West shall have doubled or tripled its free population, what will the Confederacy beweakened, per force, by servils culture—compared to a people of 30,000,000 of men shutting her is on two sides! In self-defense the South would be forced to lean on Europe. Her existence would depend on her being protected by a maratime power. England alone is in a condition to guarantee her sovereignty. This would be a new danger for free America

Edward Laboulaye, member of the Insti-inte, and President of the Legislatern Compare of France, a man holding the highest position in the first institution in the world—has issued a remarkable paper upon the American Re-bellion, which appears in the Revue Nationals of Paris. Mr. Laboulaye opens with a stateof Paris. Mr. Laboulaye opens with a state-ment of the evil effects of the war upon the manufacturing interests of the old World. Whole populations are reduced to beggary, and have no resource or hope of statemance during the winter, but private charity and aid from the Government! * * The world to day is a compact of mutual interests and obligations. For modern nations, therefore, oungations who live by industry peace is a necessary condition of extraction. It is easy to indicate the remedy; to apply it, is almost impossi-ble. Until now, it is only by means of war-that we hope to reach the end of the war. To that we nope to recent the end of the war. To throw ourselves with arms in our hands, be-tween the combatants, for the purpose of im-posing a truce upon them would be an exter-prise in which Europe would exhaust all her resources, without any end? There is no may in the South, and well alone the monopoly of cotion, and would farnish the south with capital and ships. In two words, the triumph of the South is the re-establishment of England on the continent, whence he was driven by the policy of Lonis XIV., and Napoleon.

"This is what Nopoleon felt to be true—this is what we forget to-day. It would seem as if history were merely a coffection of pleasant stories to amuse children. No one is willing to inderstand the lessons of the past. If the experience of our fathers was not lost upon our ignorance, we should see that in defending her own independence and in maintaining the national unity, the North defends our cause as well as her own. All our prayers would be for the triumph of our eld and this first of the structure of the control of the control of the control of the control of the first quarrel with England we shall regret, but too inte, that we abandoned a policy which for forty years has been the guarantee of our control of the state. Rev. Peter Cartwright's Second Lecture last night in Bryan Hall, before the Young Meh's Association. The audience was not harge, owing, no doubt, to the inclemency of the weather. The lecture, however, was listened to with great attention during the couple of hours which were occupied in its delivery.

The general character of it was similar to their which he gave the night before, and was a running and not very coherent account of backwood life, and his own personal experience as a mindiser, amongst the early sottlers of the West. Some of his retitals were as droll and humorous as they were interesting; sprinkled over, however, with rude and even coarse and profanc expressions, which would have met with little favor from any other than who was less distinguished for his piety and coentricity. We, for ourpart, were much his terested in the lecture, and took ample notes, insteading to make an elaborate report of it. The press of political and other matter, however, has deprived us of this pleasure, and our readers of an unissally rich, treat; for it abounded with choice stories well told, with piquant sketches of wild and semi-awage dharacter, and strange physical portraitures of the primeral wildones.

Mr. Cartwright is a plain, simple minded was who reflects in his language with remark, able vividness and reality, everything that he sees and his discourse is at limes redolent of our done the plaintiffs to maintain the median of the primeral wildones is at limes redolent of any large and transfer this mortgage remedy on an interest the mortgage, as standard transfer this mortgage remedy on a capanist this comany. Ac. vas shall come proved the mortgage against and income the plaintiffs to maintain the mortgage of the primeral will be presented to the soft the mortgage is consisted with the color of the primeral will be primeral will be plaintiff and transfer this mortgage, the salt mortgage remedy on an interest of the plaintiffs to transfer of the mortgage was a transfer of the catate, the security, the lands, and not a mere chose in action; that the term mortgage had a higher signification, and included the estate granted in the preperty conveyed; that the lands being described therein, it was not no cessary to repeat the description in the assignment. The words used in the assignment of the mortgage were equivalent to the use of the words, "The mortgage and the estate thereby conveyed."

It was also claimed by the counsel for the plantiffs that the question of frand could not be considered in an action of ejectment as against a third party holding for value without notice, and that such holder was protected in case there had been frand on the part of the company in obtaining the mortgage from Gray.

I de option to the Court is as rollows:

- OPENIOS OF STROM BRITANOVEN.

I do not think that evidence tending to show that this note and mortgage were obtained by false of fraudulent representations, made by the officers of agents of the Rational Company, is competent in this case. It is not claimed by defendant's connect that they can have made or connect them.

and from one division to another, shall be made at the commencement of a school month. The amendments to section 8 are important. In relation to the examination for admission to the High School, it is added to the section that candidates must prove they have attended the public schools of some city at least two thirds of a year, one half of which time must have been within six months next preceding the time of application for admission. It is further provided that no pupils from the District Schools shall be admitted to examination unless they bring certificates from the masters, that they are entitled to this privilege and eligible to an examination; and no such certificate shall be given to a pupil until the master has received from the parent or guardian a statement that the pupil desires to enter and will occupy his seat. Section 67 in addition to other provisions provides that the Chairman of the Committee on the High School may grant permission to applicants to return during the intervals of the meetings of the Board, and remain until the next meeting subsequent to such re-admission. A new paragraph is added to this section that no candidate examined for admission to the Classical or General Department of the High School and rejected shall be admitted to the Normal Department of the High School and rejected shall be admitted to the Normal Department of the Sabin, Samuel 8. Taylor, and dames Johannot, and that lizzle W. Pickering be admitted to accept the section of the Normal Department.

Upon motion, the Board adjourned.

The Last of an Old Church.

For the past few days, a long, one story, weatherbeaten frame building has been moving continued to the building has been moving continued to the building has been moving continued to the building goes a freight of associations, of pleasant and earest memories, the remembrance of the early days of our municipal history, of the early settlers, and of the times when well-to-do farmers were living in Clark street, and infrequent arrivals from the country were chronicled of the Saganash Hotel. This old building, if we remember rightly, was built in 1883, upon the apot where Warner's Hall now stands, noar the corner of Clark and Randolph streets, for the use of the Sacond Presbyterian Society, and was undoubtedly rather a sumptanous edifice for the times. The First Church were woruse of the Second Presbyterian Society, and was undoubtedly rather a sumptious edifice for the times. The First Church were worshipping at that time nearly opposite the Methodist Church Biock, in the healfding now occupied by Jordan's coffin wareroom. Rev. Dr. Patterson presided over the Second Church. In those days, Sabhath locomotion was a painful necessity, and we have the column assurances of an old settler that many a time and off he has carried his wife on his choulders, the mud rendering the pursuit of religious services any thing but an easy daty. In the spring of 1852, the State street Mothodist Church, now the Wabash avenue, benight the building, the Second Presbyterian Society having moved into their new church on Wabash avenue. It was bocupied by the Methodists six years and a haif, and the foi-
